February 2025

Dear Forest Industries Supplier:

Your company is invited to exhibit at the KENTUCKY WOOD EXPO to be held in Lexington, Kentucky on Friday, September 19 and Saturday, September 20, 2025. The 2025 show will be located at Masterson Station Park located in central Kentucky and easily accessible to both I-64 and I-75.

In 1983 the first Expo started in Morehead, KY and was originally known as the Kentucky Logging Show. The idea was spearheaded by an equipment salesman, a sawmill owner and with a lot of support from the many sawmills in the Morehead area and Morehead State University the first Logging Show took place at University Farm owned by Morehead State University. Now over 40 years later we are putting on the 36th show again in Lexington, KY, which has a large population and is in the economic center of activity for the state. This will be our sixth year in Lexington and the show continues to grow at this venue which has attracted improved industry attendance and exhibitor attendance. Masterson Station Park is a first rate facility with plenty of outside exhibit room that will be level and on sod. All indoor exhibits will be located in two buildings on the grounds. If you need additional information on the site please contact the office.

Most important to you, we will have people from the timber industry to see and purchase the latest technology in wood processing machinery, logging equipment, and timber related products. Our educational activities and events have increased at the Lexington site which has boosted industry attendance. Masterson Station Park features plenty of outside exhibit room and exhibitors are encouraged to demonstrate machinery at the show to maximize your company's show exposure.

Attached is the Exhibitors Guide, which contains information on the Kentucky Wood Expo. Be sure to make your reservations early so that you can get your preferred location and be included in any promotional materials we may print. Please return the attached exhibitor guide to reserve a space along with payment or call the KFIA office to pay by credit card.

If you have any questions, contact the KFIA office in Frankfort, KY at 502/695-3979 or fax 502/695-8343 or email Michele Brewer at michele@kfia.org.

Very truly yours,
